

Series: The Jewel Fairies

Book: Lucy the Diamond Fairy

Off to Fairyland!

Kirsty Tate folded her sweatshirt and put it into her bag. "There," she said to her best friend, Rachel Walker. "I'm all packed." She looked at the clock on Rachel's bedroom wall. "Six o'clock already!" Kirsty groaned. "Mom and Dad will be here to pick me up soon. I can't believe this week is almost over, can you?"

Rachel shook her head. "No," she replied. "It's gone so fast! But it's been a lot of fun."

The girls grinned at each other. Whenever they were together, the two of them always had the most wonderful adventures: fairy adventures! This week, the girls had been helping the Jewel Fairies find the seven magic jewels missing from Fairy Queen Titania's crown.

Mean Jack Frost had stolen the gems. Without them, some very important kinds of fairy magic were running low. So far, Kirsty and Rachel had found six of the stolen jewels – but the diamond was still missing.

Kirsty frowned. "I can't help feeling like something's wrong today," she said. "I was sure we'd find the magic diamond before I had to go home."

"Me, too," Rachel agreed. "And we haven't seen a fairy today, either. I wonder if they're all trapped in Fairyland?"

The girls exchanged worried glances. They both knew that the diamond controlled flying magic. Because it was missing, the fairies were starting to lose their ability to fly. The last fairy the girls had seen, Sophie the Sapphire Fairy, had fading wings.

www.rainbowmagiconline.com

RAINBOW magic™

“We’ll just have to find the diamond and send it back to Fairyland ourselves,” Kirsty said in a determined voice. “Do you think we should start looking now?”

Before Rachel could reply, both girls gasped in surprise. “Kirsty, your locket is glowing!” Rachel cried.

“So is your!” Kirsty’s eyes widened in surprise. “I think I know what this means...”

“...Our fairy friends need us!” Rachel finished.

The Fairy King and Queen had given each girl a locket filled with magic fairy dust. Just a pinch of fairy dust would whisk them away to Fairyland! Last time the king and queen needed their help, when the seven jewels were first stolen, Rachel’s and Kirsty’s lockets also glowed. But why would they go to Fairyland now? There was still one jewel left to find!

Rachel’s eyes were wide. “What if the diamond isn’t here? What if it’s in Fairyland, and that’s why the king and queen are calling us?” she wondered out loud.

Kirsty nodded and quickly opened her locket. “Let’s use our last pinches of fairy dust to get there,” she suggested.

“Good idea,” Rachel agreed. “Let’s go!”

Both girls sprinkled the glittering golden dust over themselves. Whoosh! Everything blurred into a whirlwind of sparkling rainbow colors. The girls felt like they were tumbling through the air, shrinking smaller and smaller as they spun.

Moments later, they found themselves landing gently at the foot of a tall, twisting tree. It stretched high above their heads. In front of them stood King Oberon and Queen Titania, with all the Jewel Fairies.

www.rainbowmagiconline.com

Read the rest of Lucy the Diamond Fairy to find out why the girls were summoned to Fairyland!

www.rainbowmagiconline.com