Puppies on Show

“Look at that zucchini, Kirsty!” Rachel Walker laughed, pointing at the giant green vegetable on the display table. “It’s almost as big as I am!”

Kirsty Tate read the card propped in front of the zucchini. “It won a prize,” she announced. “It’s the biggest vegetable at the Wetherbury Spring Show!”

There were other enormous vegetables on the table, too. The girls stared at the giant-size carrots and onions. There were also huge bowls of daffodils, tulips, and bluebells. The best flower displays had won prizes, too.

“This is great!” Rachel declared. “I wish we had a Spring Show back home.”

Rachel was staying in Wetherbury with Kirsty for the week, and the girls had spent the whole afternoon at the show. The field was crammed with booths selling homemade cakes, cookies, and jams, and there were pony rides and a huge red-and-yellow bouncy castle. Rachel and Kirsty were having a great time!

“I think we’ve been around the whole show,” Kirsty said at last. “Mom and Dad will be here to pick us up soon.”

“Should we take one last look at our favorite booth?” Rachel asked eagerly.

“You mean the one for the Wetherbury Animal Shelter?” Kirsty said with a smile.

Rachel nodded. “I want to see if they’ve found homes for those four puppies.”

“I hope so,” Kirsty said. “They were really cute!”

The girls headed toward the animal shelter booth. But as they got closer Rachel’s face fell. “Look Kirsty,” she said sadly. “There’s still one puppy left.”

“Oh, poor pup!” Kirsty said, sighing.
