Book: Cherry the Cake Fairy

A Birthday Surprise

'I just know this is going to be a wonderful birthday!' Kirsty Tate exclaimed happily, her eyes shining.

Mrs Tate laughed across the breakfast table. 'You've only been awake for half an hour, Kirsty replied' she said.

'I know,' Kirsty replied, 'But look at all these cards I've been sent! And there's my party this afternoon. And best of all Rachel's here for a whole week!' She grinned at her best friend Rachel Walker, who was sitting next to her. The two girls were spending a week of the Easter holidays together. They had met on holiday the year before, and, since then, they have had all kinds of magical adventures together. First, they had helped all seven of the Rainbow Fairies return to Fairyland. Then, they'd helped the Weather Fairies stop wicked Jack Frost from causing weather chaos!

The girls finished their breakfast and went to get dressed. Rachel was halfway up the stairs behind Kirsty, when she noticed another envelope coming through the letterbox. She ran to get it. It was a very grand looking, sparkly gold envelope, and it felt heavy in her hand. She glanced at the front of curiously – and then gasped in surprise.

Miss Kirsty Tate and Miss Rachel Walker, the beautiful loopy handwriting read. Rachel blinked. A card for Kirsty and for her? It wasn't her birthday for another three months!

She raced up the stairs, two at a time, puzzling it over. She didn't recognize the handwriting, so it couldn't be from her mum or dad. But who else knew that she was staying with Kirsty?
