Puppies On Show

‘Look at that marrow, Kirsty,’ Rachel Walker laughed, pointing at the large green vegetable on the display table. ‘It’s nearly as big as I am!’

Kirsty Tate read the card propped against the marrow. ‘It’s won a prize,’ she announced, ‘for Biggest Vegetable at the Wetherbury Spring Show.’

There were other enormous vegetables on the table too, and the girls stared at the giant- sized carrots and onions. There were also huge bowls of daffodils, tulips and bluebells. The best flower displays had won prizes too.

‘This is great!’ Rachel declared, as she finished her candy floss. ‘I wish we had a Spring Show back home.’

Rachel was staying in Wetherbury with Kirsty for the Easter holidays, and the girls had spent the whole afternoon at the show. The field was crammed with stalls selling home-made cakes, biscuits and jams, and there was a tombola, a hoopla and a coconut shy, as well as pony rides and a huge red and yellow bouncy castle. Rachel and Kirsty had really enjoyed themselves.

‘I think we’ve been around the whole show,’ Kirsty said at last. ‘Mum and Dad will be here to pick us up soon.’

‘Shall we have one last look at our favourite stall?’ asked Rachel eagerly.

‘You mean the one for Wetherbury Animal Shelter?’ Kirsty said with a smile.
