

Series: The Weather Fairies

Book: Abigail the Breeze Fairy

The Adventure Begins

'I'm so glad I could come and stay with you! Rachel Walker said happily as she sat with her friend, Kirsty, in the garden. The sun shone brightly on the neat green lawn and pretty flowering bushes.

'Me too,' agreed Kirsty Tate, smiling.
'And it's very exciting to see the fairies again!'

Kirsty and Rachel had met while on holiday with their parents and they'd had a fairy adventure. They had found all the Rainbow Fairies and helped them bring the colour back to Fairyland, after Jack Frost had cast a nasty spell to banish them.

Now Jack Frost was causing more trouble in Fairyland. He had ordered his goblin servants to steal the seven magic feathers from Doodle, the fairy cockerel. Doodle was in charge of the weather in Fairyland, but without his magic tail feathers, he was powerless! Fairyland's weather would be topsy-turvy until Rachel and Kirsty could help the Weather Fairies recover all of Doodle's stolen feathers.

'I hope we find another magic feather today,' said Rachel. She and Kirsty had already helped Crystal the Snow Fairy return the Snow Feather to Doodle.

The goblins were hiding around Kirsty's hometown of Wetherbury, And they had been up to mischief – using the magic feather to conjure up some very unusual and troublesome weather in the country village.

Kirsty looked anxious.
'We need to find the six other feathers,' she said. 'Or poor Doodle will be stuck on the top of our barn forever!' She glanced up at the roof of the old wooden barn where Doodle was perched.
